

BRANCHED WIRE LOCK

ABSTRACT

5 A branched wire lock includes a trunk wire and a branch wire. The trunk wire has one end fastening to a coupling section to couple on an anchor object or a theft-deterrent object. The branch wire has a distal end fastening to a lock head to couple on a theftdeterrent object. It can overcome the problems of insufficient anchor objects and poor locations occurred to a conventional single cable lock. And it may be adapted to display site or actual facility conditions to adjust the connection method to meet theft-deterrent 10 requirements when merchandises are displayed.